When Julia Rooney, comedienne, sang "Single Bells," the orchestra bells accompanying her, the Indians shook the rattle, with which they are decorated, in time with the girl singer. Miss Rooney seemed to be the most popular entertainer with the Indians, her act being the only one giving them an opportunity to "join in."

Prominent among the Indians who took the flyer in vaudeville were Fred Big Top, Eagle Calf, the interpreter; Lazy Boy, John Kicking Woman and James Short Grass. Before the Indians gave an exhibition of their war dances, they were accompanied by their drummers, each of the redmen was introduced to the audience by W. Griffin, manager of the party. A round of applause greeted each name.

After the show the redmen assembled in the lobby of the theater and in gratitude for the afternoon's entertainment they initiated H. W. Pierong, manager of the Empress, as a member of the Blackfeet tribe. "Chief Good Show" is the Indian name they conferred upon the theater man. Mr. Pierong now is a double Indian, as he was made a Sioux in Duluth a few years ago for his efforts in having water piped to the exhibition grounds where a tribe was stationed for the period of celebration. "Chief Cold Water" is Pierong's Sioux name.

Rex Oregonus and his suite will attend the Empress matinee today.
